Topic:

This paper examines how remote work influences employee job satisfaction and productivity by examining theoretical models of job satisfaction, the impact of social isolation and self-management, and the effects on work-life balance and technological challenges.

Research Question:

How does remote work affect employee job satisfaction and productivity from a theoretical perspective?

How did you come up with the topic of your paper?

During the corona period, I had a fully remote student job for several months, and I'm interested in whether my personal "negative" experiences align with the research literature
